God is powerful, and He is merciful and loving. The devil is a liar, and most of his lies center around this two truths. In Famine in the Promised Land, Paul Smith uses the accounts of God's faithfulness to the great Biblical heroes of faith, to help us cling to God's Truth even when our circumstances and the 'facts' seem to contradict it. Along the way, he touches on countless other issues to inspire and instruct us as we try to remain faithful until the promises of God all come to fruition.
