The Mental Status of Czolgosz, the Assassin of President Mckinley (Classic Reprint) Walter Channing Oct The photographs taken after the crime (P late I) are not as good a piece of work, but the essential features are the same. There is in the front view the same serenity, reflectiveness and directness and not an indication that a ripple of excitement has disturbed the mental Hfe beneath. This must be the face of some inoffensive young man, I am tempted to say. This surely cannot be a murderer with blood still red on his hands. The profile view is not pleasing and has the effect of a weak and womanish face. In this the A dams apple is prominent. Mr. Spitzka describes the features of the assassin as follows: The nose is pointed, slightly retrousse and fairly straight, deviating a little at the point of the injury inflicted at the time of the assassination. The eyes are blue. The hair light brown and slightly curly. The face is oval and symmetrical. The ears are well formed and absolutely symmetrical. The mouth is well shaped. The lips full. The teeth are of normal shape, but in poor condition. The head of Czolgosz is typical of the Poles and falls into the sub-brachycephalic class; according to Weisbach the cephalic index of 40 Poles was 82.9 (82.88 in Czolgosz). FACTS RELATING TO THE EARLY HISTORY OF CZOLGOSZ. The Family, The family history of Czolgosz is as follows: His paternal grandfather died at 40 after a severe cold. Paternal grandmother died at 72, of old age. Maternal grandfather died of causes unknown. Maternal grandmother died at 30 of some blood disease. Maternal aunt insane; cause of death unknown.
